

A Dispatch from the New Labour Wasteland

by Henry James (June 2015)

In my home town on the east coast of Scotland there was no shortage of graffiti in the run-up to last year's referendum on independence. The message was short and demanding: 'End London Rule!' Nine months later and these slogans have not yet faded. You can find them stencilled on walls, bins, on pavements, and even written through the dust on the back of white vans.

more>>>