

A Dissenting Opinion From Dar Al-Fatwa

Nina Totenberg is unlikely to be prompted by the questions from Scalia or Roberts, or from any of the other seven, to quote it, so let's do it here:

"Sex as an institution, sex as a general notion, sex as a problem, sex as a platitude— all this is something I find too tedious for words. Let us skip sex."

— Vladimir Nabokov, in an interview published in Playboy in 1964
