

A Little More About that Formerly-Aussie-Resident Muslim Who's Now Dead In Syria; While the Prime Minister Wastes His Time Urging Muslims Not To Heed the Jihad Directive

As reported in the Herald-Sun, by James Dowling and Tom Minear.

“Teen (it would be more accurate to say, “Young man” – 19 is old enough to vote, drink, and drive, 19 is a man, not a ‘teen’ – CM) Killed Fighting with Islamic State Contacted Two Other Melbourne Extremists”.

Melbourne didn't make them 'extreme'. Melbourne didn't make them Muslim. Melbourne didn't make them go jihad. The fact that they all happened to reside in Melbourne is pretty much irrelevant, except that it indicates that Melbourne has a problem: a large and rapidly-becoming-more-aggressive Mohammedan colony. – CM

‘A teen who died fighting with Islamic State was in contact with two other Melbourne extremists in the Middle East.

No: ‘in contact with two other Melbourne-reared Muslim jihadis in the Middle East.’ – CM

'Irfaan Hussein, who the Herald-Sun revealed [had] died fighting with the death cult (that is: fighting on behalf of the Sunni branch of Islam, the religion of blood and war – CM) had links with fellow fighters Yusuf Yusuf and Sharky Jama.

'All three are believed to have grown up in Melbourne's south-eastern suburbs.

They all three grew up in Muslim families. That's the common factor that matters. – CM

'The Federal Government said security agencies were working to confirm reports of Hussein's death, but warned it was difficult to get information from a war zone...

'Jama, a former male model, was reportedly shot dead in Syria last month. It is believed he spent some time fighting with the extremists in Iraq.

He's dead. He won't come back. One less to have to expensively keep tabs on. – CM

'Yusuf's last known location was in Islamic State's de facto capital, Raqqa, where he had bragged about watching the death cult set a Jordanian pilot on fire.

Enjoying and approving of the torture-murder of another Muslim, as punishment for being insufficiently-Islamic. If he's fine with doing that to another Muslim, what would he approve of doing to us dirty Infidels? And this young Muslim man, Yusuf, with his Aussie passport, he approved. We don't want him back. Ever. – CM

'The extent of the relationship between the three Melbourne men (the three formerly-Melbourne-resident Muslim men – CM) is not clear.

'Hussein had connected with Jama and Yusuf via Facebook but social media accounts of all three have since been removed.

'Hussein was a close friend of Numan Haider, who was killed when he stabbed two police officers in Endeavour Hills last year.

Which mosque or mosques or "Islamic centre" did they and/ or their families attend? That's what I want to know. – CM

'Jama, who with his father is well known in the Somali community (the Somali Muslim community – CM), also seemed to know Haider.

Did they all go to the same mosque? Is anyone checking? – CM

'On November 2 he posted a "tribute to my beloved akhi (brothe)" and claimed the teen had intended to leave Australia.

'Prime Minister Tony Abbott renewed calls to young Australians (sic: young Australia-resident Muslims – CM) not to fall for the terrorist group's message.

"Do not go.

No! No! No! Prime Minister, why do you want to keep them here, to be a permanent and ever-increasing menace to everybody here who is not a Muslim? This is madness. Let them go. Then slam and lock the door behind them. – CM

'That's my message. And if you do go, and you do try to come back, as far as I'm concerned, you will be arrested, you will be prosecuted, and you will be jailed, because there is no place in our society for people who have been radicalised...by...these terrorist movements", Mr Abbott said.'

You're wasting your breath, Prime Minister. These pious young Muslims – whether raised-Muslim or converts to Islam – are obeying the call to wage jihad fi sabil allah. They won't listen to you: you're merely a filthy Infidel, a dirty unbeliever, one of the "worst of beasts" because of your refusal to bow to allah. You identify as a Christian, which makes you a practitioner of shirk, which for Muslims is the worst of crimes, much worse than murder.

So, Prime Minister, here are my ideas.

First, be thankful that these piously-murder-minded young Muslims want to leave the country and "slay and be slain" fighting "in allah's cause" in a country already dominated and ruined by Islam. Don't try to stop them. Don't tell them not to go. Say nothing. Let them go and don't let them come back, ever. (Meanwhile, surely it isn't beyond our capacity to discreetly – and massively – assist the desperate Yazidis and Assyrian Christians to defend themselves against all those pious and zealous imitators of Mohammed – all those wannabee murderers, rapists and slave-traders?).

Second: DON'T give money to Muslim 'community organisations' to carry out 'deradicalisation'. They won't. They can't. Muslims won't lift a finger to stop their own from Going Jihad as and when they think the time is ripe. The only 'deradicalisation' that means anything, from the point of view of a jihad-threatened Infidel, is full-on publicly-declared apostasy from Islam...and no Muslim entity will encourage that.

Third: put an end to Muslim immigration! There is no place in our society for any more adherents of the death cult, the Religion of Blood and War...Islam. The ones we've already got are both deadly dangerous and very, very expensive. Instead of bringing more in we should be trying to work out how to discourage those already present, from remaining.

And fourth: where is the campaign to put Aussie non-Muslims, especially the young impressionable ones, right off the very idea of converting to Islam? The shilling for Islam, the glamourising of Islam, the propagandising for and flattering of Islam and the constant feting of sleekly-be-hijabbed converts to Islam and smilingly-besuited Muslim dawa artists like Walid Aly in our media – the nationally-funded ABC and the rest of it – needs to stop. I don't want any more Jake Bilardis. Where is the public platform and the megaphone for the intelligent ex-Muslims like Magdi Cristiano Allam and Daniel Shayesteh and Wafa Sultan, Mona Walter and Ibn Warraq? For sober non-Muslim scholars like Rev Dr Mark Durie? Or for those who foolishly converted to Islam but then came to their senses and bolted and have cautionary tales to tell? Such people – sadder and wiser people – exist. They should be telling their stories on prime-time tabloid TV – “Don't join the Mob!” Conversion to Islam needs to be perceived as seriously uncool.

Do all that, Prime Minister, and we'd be on the way to defending ourselves against the global Jihad. – CM
