

A Week of Outrages

by Gary Fouse

The bus still smolders after Sengalese immigrant attempted to burn schoolchildren alive

The past week has not been good from the standpoint of horrific attacks around the world. We began with an Australian man attacking two mosques in Christchurch, New Zealand and killing 50 Muslim worshipers in a calm and collected manner, which he recorded on video. I have seen it, and it is horrific. I chose not to post it.

At the same time, Nigerian Christians by the hundreds have been slaughtered in the past couple of weeks by so-called "Fulani herders" (Muslims). It has received unbelievably little coverage.

On Monday of this week, a Turkish man