

Agony and Eloquence

by Rebecca Bynum

Washington's birthday and Lincoln's birthday both fall in February. We used to celebrate both and the schools always made an effort to teach us something about both Presidents. Now we have President's Day which means our children are most likely not taught anything about American history. Just a day off for no particular reason.

Speaking of the Founders, I highly recommend Daniel Mallock's book about Jefferson and Adams,