

And the winner is “Our Man”

By William Corden

No need for grace in victory a scourge it has been vanquished He changed the path of history by preaching what he practiced

He steps up to the podium in strengthened vindication withstood the flood of odium to win his coronation.

This time he knows just what do
'Cos he's been here before He knows the ones he's gonna keep and who'll be shown the door.

First things first and last things last will set the new agenda he's got to get the deadwood out remove impedimenta.

Line 'em up, give 'em notice the old wounds need a burning poultice and he's the man to take them on starting right from first day one.

Once he's got the main job done and got his guys in place, he can get the whole thing moving and clean up this disgrace.

Fire the drones who've made the mess those enemies from within, end the farce of genderness let's begin again.

It won't be easy, it won't be kind, the players sleazy, the loyalties blind.
But here we have chance at last the chance to put things right.
Put your hopes behind him and fight fight fight.
