

Dignity or Sati? Death as a Lifestyle Choice

by Mary Jackson (June 2010)

"If you, my beloved, have died...all the leaves will fall on my breast...it will rain on my soul night and day...the snow will burn my heart...I shall walk with cold and fire and death and snow...my feet will want to march to where you sleep...but I shall go on living..."

London Evening Standard: