

In All Our Trials

by Susan Shea (December 2023)

Christmas Dinner– Robert Braithwaite Martineau, 19th Century

A little survey revealed that most people choose the word dread over the word joy to describe the holidays making me feel better about myself making me want to get a hold of those joy recipes as soon as I can, to rustle up those ingredients I should keep in my house but who can assure me that all of us involved would be willing to fit into those pre-ordained spaces in those cupcake pans and how many different kinds of sugar and sugar coated substitutes will I need to spread into icing over all the baggage-shaped cookies sitting in the room aiming to make the sad eyes smile through all the wrappings

I want to fall on my knees and hear the angel voices
I'll keep trying if you keep joining me

Table of Contents

Susan Shea is a retired school psychologist who was raised in New York City, and is now living in a forest in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. Since she has returned to writing poetry this year, her poetry has been accepted in a few dozen publications, including Feminine Collective, Ekstasis, Persimmon Tree Literary Magazine, and The Avalon Literary Review.

Follow NER on Twitter @NERIconoclast