

As the distressing attacks in Paris were occurring last night, some of Britain's most high profile and notorious Islamist extremists gathered just north of London, unimpeded, to tell hundreds of British Muslims to "struggle" for an "Islamic State."

From told Bedford Today: "Some of [the speakers] are very controversial, some of them have said things that have been deemed distasteful. On the flip side" he said, "none of them have broken any laws and none of them are convicted criminals."

From left to right: Haitham al-Haddad, Sulaiman Ghani, Adnan Rashid, Dilly Hussain, Taji Mustafa, Abdur Raheem Green, Moazzam Begg