

'At least 40 babies killed': Foreign reporters taken to massacre site in Kfar Aza

I don't know if it is naivety that such brutality could happen in our modern age, or anti-Israeli prejudice refusing to believe the word of Israelis, but the evidence of the eyes of certain French reporters today seems to have convinced the MSM that the depth of the atrocity is accurate. From The Times of Israel

The IDF took dozens of foreign journalists on Tuesday to see for themselves the death and destruction wrought by Hamas terrorists this week.

With explosions and artillery fire in the background, the crews, wearing helmets and flak jackets, picked through the destroyed Kibbutz Kfar Aza, where the bodies of Palestinian terrorists still lay outside of fire-scarred homes.

The journalists were protected by at least a company of IDF soldiers, clad in full combat gear as they continued to clear homes.

Reporters spoke of the stench of death in the air.

A reporter from i24 News said that an IDF commander told her that they had found the bodies of some 40 babies, some of whom had been beheaded.

margothadda

Ça y est l'information est sortie. C'est si macabre que personne ne voulait la donner avant d'avoir eu confirmation à 100%. Des nourrissons, des enfants de moins de 2 ans ont été décapités par le Hamas dans le Kibboutz de Kfar Aza. C'est une horreur, un massacre. Pour ceux qui demandent la source. Elles sont multiples: armée israélienne, service du renseignement intérieur et images atroces qui ont pu me parvenir et que j'ai pu recouper. Mais la meilleure source reste celle ci : des journalistes courageux de la presse étrangère qui ont pu voir / accepté de voir de leurs propres yeux les corps à Kfar Aza.

