

Australia's ABC Publishes Testimony of Escaped Yazidi Sex Slave, But Neglects to Tell us that Sexual Enslavement of Non-Muslim Females is Normative Islam

A harrowing story... and one that can and should be read – although Australia's reliably Islamophile ABC would never dare to even hint to the reader that it should thus be read – as a window onto the horrors experienced by millions of non-Muslim children – whether girls or boys – and women seized and enslaved and violently sexually abused by Muslims throughout the past 1400 years of jihad and dhimmitude. Not excluding the thousands of British girls who have been 'groomed', raped, terrorised, pimped and essentially enslaved and slave-traded by Muslim gangs operating within the UK. This is what Muslims feel entitled to do to "that which your right hand possesses", which is how the Quran refers to sex slaves. The Arabic pronoun is not the pronoun used for persons but the pronoun used for objects. Sex slaves are not viewed as people, they are viewed and treated as things, objects to be used and abused and disposed of – "easy meat".

From Katri Uibu, for the ABC.

<http://www.abc.net.au/news/2018-03-07/how-i-escaped-the-islamic-state-terrorists/9406286>

"How I Escaped From Islamic State's Sexual Slavery".

Translation: "How I Escaped From Muslim Sex Slavers". – CM

'At 17, Farida was forced into sexual slavery by Islamic State soldiers. (That is: by pious Muslims who were scrupulously obeying the teachings and following example of that rapist and slave-trader, Mohammed, the founder of Islam. – CM).

'This is the story of her extraordinary escape.

"In a small village of Kojo in Northern Iraq, Farida was living a "simple" life, harbouring dreams about the one thing that many Western teens see as interfering with their daily life – school. "We didn't have that big of dreams. My big dream was to continue school, to become a maths teacher", she told the ABC.

'Later, that very school would forever be stamped in the villagers' memories as a place where their families were murdered.

Murdered by perfectly-orthodox Muslims who viewed the Yazidis as polytheists, to be offered only two options – either conversion to Islam, or death. – CM

'Born into a family of four brothers, and a father who worked for the Iraqi army, Farida developed a quality she later associated with saving her life. "The reason that I tried to keep strong was, my father inspired me, and said, "You are strong, and I'm sure you will be strong, doesn't matter when and how", she said.

'She now thinks that he might have foreseen what was looming – after all, the Yazidis had been persecuted many times before.

*Persecuted by whom, Ms Uibi? By Muslims, Muslims, Muslims