

Brisbane: Man charged with terrorism offences

I think this sets some kind of record, in terms of That Which Must Not Be Named. A 'man' has been arrested – basically, a Brisbane-resident Muslim man who was in Saudi Arabia for some time, and was planning to engage in jihad in Syria (against the deemed-infidel heretic Alawites). The reporter gets through the whole article without once mentioning the obvious.