

Canadian Voters Beware!

By William Corden

The sudden U-turn in Liberal's policies, things like abolishing the carbon tax or limiting the tax on capital gains is simply a ruse to make us think that the leopard has changed its spots.

If there was no need for a carbon tax or no need to increase the capital gains tax then why announce the policy now?

Coincidence they're looking for a new mandate and strange that they wouldn't budge on these regressive/

extremely unpopular taxes until their backs were against the wall.

Remember Liberal Jean Chretien fooled us into believing that he wouldn't impose a GST on us and then days after he was elected he slapped it on anyways? (Although in many other ways HE was a good Prime Minister)

Well this current batch of Liberals, if elected, would whack those taxes back on in a New York minute and tell us straight faced again that they are needed to combat climate change.

Look at Carney's track record when it comes to the environment, he would have us reading by candlelight while the rest of the world is floodlit.

Don't be fooled by these politics of convenience, they still have the same unspliced DNA
