

Celebrity Has Its Uses: Kim Kardashian Takes Out New York Times Ad, Calls For Recognition of Armenian Genocide as Genocide

As reported by Australia's ABC just yesterday. Presumably in order to avoid getting threatening letters from the Turkish subset of the Religion of Perpetual Outrage, the ABC put scare quotes round "Armenian genocide" in its original headline. Those scare quotes are not necessary; for my own headline I have removed them. Those scare quotes, deployed by the ABC, together with certain other passages in the report itself, also reveal that other media outlets besides the New York Times need to take a good long look in the mirror and ask themselves why they are so shamefully willing to be complicit in whitewashing, covering up, and denying the appalling truth about the first (and one of the worst)mass-murders of the 20th century, a century replete with episodes of mass murder.

And why they refuse to inform their readers, when reporting on this story, that the very term 'genocide', which many a grovelling Islamophile refuses to attach to the vast butchery of Armenian Christians that took place in 1915 and 1916 within Ottoman territory by Turkish – and Arab, and Kurdish – Muslims of all sorts and conditions, was coined by a man whose creation of that term was shaped at least in part by his awareness of and reflections upon that vast butchery.

<http://www.abc.net.au/news/2016-09-20/kim-kardashian-takes-out-newspaper-ad-for-armenian-genocide/7860172>

"Kim Kardashian Takes Out New York Times Ad Calling For Recognition of 'Armenian Genocide'"

'Kim Kardashian, the world's most famous Armenian, has taken out a full-page ad in the New York Times, calling for the massacre (that is: the Muslim massacre – CM) a century ago of up to 1.5 million Armenians (and it would be more precise to write, "of up to 1.5 million Armenian Christians – CM) to be recognised as genocide.

'It was in response to the Wall Street Journal publishing an advertisement earlier this year, which supported the denial of the event.

'The United States and Australia are among the nations that (in a cowardly and shameful capitulation to Turkish and other Muslim tantrums, threats and bribes of all descriptions – CM) do not recognise the event as a genocide.

It's high time that they did call it what it was. No intelligent, sane and decent person who has ever read Andrew Bostom's discussion and overview of the reputable scholarly treatments of the subject, "The Jihad Genocide of the Armenians", http://www.americanthinker.com/2005/04/the_jihad_genocide_of_the_arme.html

or Vahakn Dadrian's monumental work, The History of the Armenian Genocide, replete with eyewitness testimony of grim and relentless detail, or the work of an earlier researcher, Reverend Kai Balakian, "Armenian Golgotha", or Franz Werfl's "Forty Days of Musa Dagh" (1933), can avoid concluding that this immense atrocity – which the ABC in this report primly calls an 'event' – was genocide.

'Reality television star Kardashian has long campaigned for that to change, and visited its memorial last year.

I shall ever after think the better of her, for her doing and having done this one thing. – CM

'What did the ad say?

'On Saturday, Kardashian's advertisement read:

"For the Wall Street Journal to publish something like this [that is, an advertisement – paid for by the Turkish lobby, one must presume, i.e. paid for by Turkish Muslims – openly denying that the genocide of the Armenian Christians, at Muslim hands, was a genocide at all – CM] is reckless, upsetting, and dangerous.

'It's one thing when a crappy tabloid profits from a made-up scandal, but for a trusted publication like WSJ to profit from genocide – it's shameful and unacceptable.'

'She went on to ask:

"If this had been an ad denying the Holocaust, or pushing some 9/11 conspiracy theory, would it have made it to print?

"Many historians believe that if Turkey had been held responsible for the Armenian genocide, and reprimanded for what they did, the Holocaust may not have happened.

"In 1939, a week before the Nazi invasion of Poland, Hitler said, "Who, after all, speaks today of the annihilation of the Armenians?"

"We do. We must talk about it until it is recognised by our governments, because when we deny our past, we endanger our future."

Yes. Yes. And again, Yes. – CM

And now to the rest of the ABC's report, which though couched as background information for the historically ignorant average Aussie reader, succeeds only in proving Ms Kardashian's point, by its mealy-mouthed parroting of the Turkish – and Muslim – line, its minimisation of a massive Jihad genocide. – CM

'What do we know about the event'.

The 'event'. The jihad mass-murder of more than a million people – the vast majority of them unarmed and helpless noncombatants, the elderly, priests and their pregnant wives, women and children – is an 'event'. An 'incident'. – CM

'One and a half million (at least! – CM) Armenians (*that is, Armenian Christians