

Christian preacher to the Muslims Hatun Tash is missing

There is concern today about fearless preacher Hatun Tash, who has not been seen by friends and colleagues at the DCCI Ministries for 11 days.

It is possible she is just on retreat quietly and forgot to tell colleagues, or the colleague she told has forgotten or is unwell.

But when a woman has been the subject of so many assaults, death threats, insults, a murder plot and constant abuse one must be concerned.

Edward Little who plotted her death is behind bars. But the man who slashed her face at Speaker's Corner last year was never apprehended. Despite him coming out of a crowd of known faces, wielding his knife in front of dozens of witness, who included a clutch of police officers, the assault caught on camera, still photographs, he was never tracked down and apprehended. I find this concerning.

Even the tweets concerned about her whereabouts are attracting abuse from Muslims tonight.

The police should be taking her absence seriously but none of us can find any evidence that they are investigating

Steve speakers Corner was the first to raise this on X this morning and his tweet has been reposted widely.

Hopefully all is well and she sees her friends messages and gets in touch as soon as she spots them. But she is a proven target for jihadis and her protection should be a priority.
