

Counting On The Diet Of Worms

Story here.

Will the 42 billion nematode worms arriving by a Berlin Airlift, once in sunny Israel, continue to confine their diet to the larvae of the red palm weevil? Might they find something else even more to their liking? The BioBee company is betting that the diet of these worms will remain, as hoped, centered on red palm weevil larvae. You can hope too. No one likes to be hit by a falling palm.
