

Dalil Boubakeur Wants To Double The Number Of Mosques In France

Dalil Boubakeur is the government-sanctioned “leader of the Muslim community,” certified moderate and so on. He wants the French government to build even more mosques all over the place. You see, all those mosques built with government money can then present the true face and message of Islam, rather than all that bad stuff that all those little mosques run out of storefronts or houses tolerate or encourage. Makes perfect sense
