

Danish Teen Has Been Jailed for Killing Her Mother in an ISIS-Inspired Attack

A horrible story from the Bild newspaper reported.

Police later examined Borch's computer and found she had been watching Isis videos "the whole evening long".

The fingerprints of Borch's 29-year-old boyfriend, Bakhtiar Mohammed Abdulla, were also found in Holtegaard's bedroom, although he was not at the scene when police arrived.

Borch had met Abdulla, originally from Iraq, at a refugee centre near her home. It is believed the pair had plotted to flee to Syria and fight for Isis.

Lisa's twin sister told the court she had previously moved out of the family house due to the constant arguing between Borch and her mother.

The court heard it was "the endless rowing which cost the mother her life" and that the majority of their arguments concerned Borch and Abdullah's relationship.

The prosecution told the court: "This murder was cold-blooded, ice cold and committed in a bestial manner."