

Denis McDonough Wins Screaming Approval From J Street With His Business About

A nearly unbelievable, and disgusting performance, by speaker and by J Street audience, here.

The historically inaccurate application of the word “occupation” – so dear to Saeb Erekat, and all the propagandists, little and big, for the “Palestinian” cause, the ignoring of Resolution 242 and its requirement of “defensible borders,” the bland acceptance of the narrative about a “Palestinian people” which was invented after the Six-Day War to disguise, and make more palatable, the Jihad against Israel by Muslim Arabs intent on wiping out that outrage to their beliefs, an Infidel nation-state resurrected after centuries of Muslim conquest and domination, and of course the ignoring of what the Mandate for Palestine was all about – all this was on display in Denis McDonough’s sickening, disgusting speech, met with wild applause at J Street, but not among those who know something about history, or who have been forced to become alert to what Islam inculcates, and what that means for Israel’s security.
