

For Iran, 2020 Was Not A Good Year

by Hugh Fitzgerald

The year 2020 was not a good one for Iran. It began with the assassination of Qasem Soleimani, a major general in the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC) and head of its Quds Force, and ended with Israel's assassination of the "mastermind" of Iran's nuclear program, Mohsen Fakhrizadeh. The report on Iran's dismal year is here: "Iran standoff 2021 forecast: From initiative to uncertainty – analysis," by Yonah Jeremy Bob, Jihad Watch.
