From the Pakistani High Commission on Monday said.

Personally I don't think it is the safety of British Diplomatic staff in Pakistan that is the issue; several dozen (couple of hundred? – I don't know the figures) officials and any family members could be recalled home for the duration quite easily. It's the hundreds of thousands of not just Pakistani Muslims in the UK who could be whipped up into a frenzy of rioting at the drop of a hijab.

And that's the real worry.
