

Former Pennsylvania Congressman and Retired US Navy Admiral Joe Sestak says: "Iran fulfilled its part of the Nuclear Deal".

Former Pennsylvania Congressman and retired Naval Admiral Joe Sestak

Source: AP

Here's former Pennsylvania Democratic Congressman and US Navy Admiral Joe Sestak suggesting that Iran has met all of the conditions for release of $100 billion in sequestered funds?

Sestak is either desperate, myopic or both in the looming electoral battle going up against incumbent Pennsylvania Republican Senator Pat Toomey who beat him in a narrow 2010 race. This Washington Free Beacon report discusses the incredulity of Sestak's remarks, Joe Sestak: 'Iran Has Met Its End of the Deal'. Sestak's assertions come in the face of definitive evidence of Iran's violation of UN Resolutions banning ballistic missile testing, which experts allege has only purpose; fitting a nuclear warhead.

Note these excerpts from the Washington Free Beacon report:

Sestak, a former congressman and retired Navy admiral, praised the Iranian nuclear agreement and said that halting plans to unfreeze Iranian assets would harm both American and Israeli security.

“Iran has met its end of the deal,” Sestak said. “For us not to meet our end, or word, of the deal to unfreeze assets will harm American and Israeli security.”

Sestak’s comment was in response to an criticism from its allies on the nuclear deal in Congress.

Marc Dubowitz of the Washington, DC-based Foundation for the Defense of Democracies, the sanctions expert of note replied:

Mark Dubowitz, executive director of the Foundation for Defense of Democracies, said that Sestak’s remark makes him an outlier even among Democrats.

“Most sensible Democrats are outraged that Iran is not meeting its end of a deal under which Tehran will get hundreds of billions of dollars on the assumption that it won’t build nuclear weapons,” Dubowitz said.

Sestak also