

French Leaders Demand Muslims Denounce Anti-Christian And Anti-Jewish Verses In Quran

Joshua Gill writes in the Mireille Knoll, a Holocaust survivor, whose Muslim neighbor and another man stabbed her to death before setting her apartment on fire. The manifesto's authors blame the anti-Semitism surge on the rise of radical Islam in France and the media's silence on the matter.

"Why the silence? It is because radical Islam is considered exclusively by some of the elite French parties as an expression of social revolt ... because the old anti-Semitism of the extreme Right is added to the anti-Semitism of the radical Left, which has found anti-Zionism as their alibi for transforming the executioners of Jews as victims in society," the manifesto states,
