

God Bless President Trump

by Rebecca Bynum

As the Trump administration passes into history, I want to express my firm belief that President Trump was one of the greatest Presidents in our history and I could not be more proud of my small role in helping to secure his glorious election in 2016.

To all those Republicans jockeying for position in what they believe is a post-Trump party, think again.

Despite his stumble on January 6th (and it was a stumble, nothing more), Trump's grip on the Republican electorate remains undiminished.

He will graciously pass the torch to President Biden on January 20 and become what Biden will never be, our most beloved ex-President. Nostalgia for his strong, smart governing hand along with buyer's remorse for the perpetually weak and corrupt Joe Biden will begin immediately.

God Bless President Trump! We will not see his like again.
