

Hampton Court – Festival of Tulips

It would be a foolhardy person who risked the wrath of the Royal Palace garden team and tip-toed through. The King still owns it, but none of the royal family live there; it is managed by the Historic Royal Palace trust as a cultural attraction.

I didn't accompany the family on the excursion earlier this week. Now I see the photographs I regret not tagging along. Maybe next year.