

In Gaza, Extremists Kill Extreme Extremists, And So On

The detail of most interest, in this tale of killers killing killers, is that the killer killed was asleep, at home, with “27 members of his family.” These “families” ever-expanding, these populations exploding, these attempts to make the excess Muslim population the responsibility of the non-Muslim world, forever, through such organizations as UNRWA, or through the migration to Europe where not jobs are sought, but all the benefits now available in welfare states, of which Muslim migrants are keenly aware which is why they try to bypass southern Europe and get to where they think welfare bonanza is best – in England, Germany, the Scandinavian countries. That determined search for getting on the permanent dole of the Infidels is primly described in the Western press as “going in search of a better life.”
