

It's a ji-hard life

Spare a thought for the suffering soldier of Allah. From it was the Jews. Jews even rhymes with shoes, so that proves it.

Hussain is not alone in complaining about aspects of jihadist life.

British jihadist Imran Khawaja, who was jailed earlier this year, complained to friends when he was in Syria that he could not obtain moisturiser or soft toilet paper.

Hussain concluded: "We have many European battalions which one can join if he finds it problematic.

"In fact, I would strongly advise my Western brothers to join a non-Arab battalion if the above traits are something one cannot live with."
