

Just so we all know what dimensions we're talking about.... The Gaza Strip

By William Corden

Here is a map showing the size of Gaza compared to the city of Tokyo, a relatively peaceful place in world politics despite its enormous population.

It's only 25 miles long and 6 miles wide and yet it causes more problems than all other hotspots of the world combined. Population of Gaza 2.1 million ... population of Tokyo 14.1 million..

International opinion of Tokyo? organized, efficient, safe, clean, friendly!

International opinion of Gaza ? a living hell!

President Trump's proposal to demolish the place and create a liveable area is the first practical alternative idea to come along since Lee Kuan Yew took a Singapore swamp and made it into a glittering jewel.

The proof is there that it could be done (there's unlimited amounts of money for the area) if we could only find a way past the hatred.
