

Kamala's Staged Performance—Up at X

By Phyllis Chesler

Is the American Election Really a Staged Movie about an Election?

Who is running the American ship of state? In a fit of pique, our deposed President is on permanent vacation. We only have an unelected Vice-Presidential candidate whose public appearances are carefully staged performance, just as if she was an actress in a movie about the first black woman President.

The uninformed masses, (that's most of us), vote for candidates who are celebrity look-alikes or at least who are surrounded by our favorite singers, dancers, actors. I watched the CNN interview, saw that Harris was able to perform gravitas, i.e. she did not laugh.

Harris said that her values have not changed but that her future policies will change on fracking, the economy, the border, but she took no responsibility for the border disaster except to blame Trump for it—and for the economy. And then she lost me when she started using the preferred code words for Kill the Jews: We need an immediate “ceasefire,” dignity for the Palestinians, and a “two state solution.” Oh yes, and we want the hostages returned.

How many such captives does she think are still alive? I started yelling at the screen and turned CNN right off.
