

latest toll – 22 people, including some children killed and 59 wounded

From Mirror US media reported that British authorities have tentatively identified the suspect, who died in the blast which targeted fans as they left the gig.

The Wall Street Journal in the US is reporting that police may have already identified a suicide bomber responsible for the blast. The newspaper said they have found “remains” of the bomber at the scene

If the Chief Constable is confident to say ‘he’ then the murderer is male; I did wonder if the bomber might have been a woman, the better able to get into the foyer under the guise of ‘collecting my children’. Security is quite tight at venues now. But the exits as people are leaving...
