

London-based, pro-ISIS preacher calls for jihad against Israel

I saw the headline from MEMRI recently, but without a subscription couldn't confirm my sneaking suspicion that it was Choudary. The Jewish News Syndicate confirms it.

London-based, pro-Islamic State (ISIS) preacher Anjem Choudary published on his blog and Telegram channel an article in English titled, "Israeli Crimes Against Muslims in Palestine Will Come to an End!" The last time I checked his blog it was "unreachable", and I got the same result this morning. Either he has a new blog, or MEMRI reaches places I can't. Probably both.

(He) called on Muslims around the world to ignore proposed political solutions to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Instead, he called on Muslims to join the ranks of jihad to end the suffering of the Palestinians.

He further announced that he was launching a new Twitter campaign to rally support for his call.

"The Islamic verdict for Palestine is clear from the Divine sources of legislation—the Koran and Sunnah, it is NOT a two-state solution or a peace treaty; rather, the Divine ruling is to fight jihad to defend life and property, and to liberate the land," he concluded.
