

Nashville: Muslim family charged with assaulting son for converting to Christianity

Leaving Islam is punishable by death under Islamic law, and anyone can carry out the sentence. This family tried to torture their son into renouncing Christ and reverting to Islam. As I have said many times, in Islam, human beings are nothing, Islam is everything.

Nick Kadum, left, Rawaa Khawaji and John Kadum. (Metro Nashville Police Dept.)

Fox News: A Muslim family in Nashville, Tennessee, was arrested early Tuesday for allegedly assaulting their son for converting to Christianity, according to local reports.

The victim told police his father, mother, and brother repeatedly punched him and spat in his face, according to an arrest warrant obtained by FOX 17.

Arrest records show the mother, Rawaa Khawaji, scratched the back of his right hand with a knife.

The victim accused his family of demanding that he renounce Christianity and return to Islam.

Officers conducted a welfare check at the home after the victim's employer called police with concerns.

Responding Metropolitan Nashville Police Department (MNP) officers were reported to have found the victim "trembling and wide-eyed" with "disheveled hair." The victim also appeared to have been "cut haphazardly" with lumps on his face.

The victim was transferred to a local hospital for treatment.

The father, mother, and brother, were all arrested early Tuesday on charges of domestic assault, bodily injury, and aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.