

NER Press Regrets

New English Review Press regrets to announce the parting of ways with Michael Rectenwald. We have had a great run, published some great books and enjoyed our time together. Unfortunately, Michael's recent political statements have made it impossible for NER Press to continue our relationship.

New English Review continues to stand behind the books we have published, and we wish Michael all the best wherever his path should take him in the future.

Rebecca Bynum
Publisher, NER Press