

One More Murder By Illegal Muslim Immigrants In Italy

A Moroccan who had been expelled from Italy before, but managed to sneak back in through Lampedusa, slit the throat of a boy who happened to pass him on the street (“What are you doing – looking at me?” said the Moroccan before slitting the boy’s throat). The story will probably never make it into the newspapers outside of Italy; there are so many similar reports, of the crimes caused by the flood of illegals in Italy, crimes not only in Milan and Rome and Bologna, but even in tiny places, like Terni, in Umbria. These illegals do not work; they live through crime, crime of all sorts. And they kill.

Read, if you can, the story here, and in the comments, the howls of rage and despair.