

OUCH! The Nuclear Family

by Reg Green

We may not be at the edge of nuclear annihilation, after all.

We've seen how creaky Russian technology is. Perhaps ours is too.

I say this because many years ago Art Buchwald wrote in one of his Washington Post columns that when the time finally comes for a President to press the red button all that will happen is the door of the White House garage will go up.