

Pro-Gaza activist hurls dozens of LIVE MICE painted in Palestinian flag colours into a Birmingham McDonald's leaving customers screaming – 'because the chain supports Israel'

*Half-way through the article the Daily Mail reporter starts calling the poor little creatures 'rats'. To be clear, the innocent little creatures boxed up and painted red, green and black are MICE, probably Mus musculus, and if bought from a pet shop cost around £5 each. The 'rats' in this story are the pro-Hamas low-lives who tormented them with a paint job and then tried to destroy the business of what is probably a hard-working franchisee of the McDonald's chain.*

... a pro-Palestine activist let dozens of mice douse in red, green, white and black paint, were let loose in a McDonald's restaurant in Birmingham, terrifying customers.

A man throws a bunch of mice into a packed McDonald's in London to protest against Israel.

He shouts "Free Palestine" pic.twitter.com/Mzmb8AfQ0M

– Visegrád 24 (@visegrad24) October 30, 2023

The activist can be heard repeatedly shouting 'Free fing Palestine' as walks back to his car, later adding 'Boycott Israel' and 'F Israel' before driving off.

At the end of the video, the activist calls on boycott McDonald's, Starbucks and Disney for allegedly showing support to Israel.

McDonald's confirmed last night 'a number of mice' were released inside the restaurant, which has now been 'fully sanitised' after the creatures were removed.

At the end of the footage, a block of text on the screen reads: 'Targetted boycott. The Big Three. Start by boycotting these brands that are directly involved in supporting the Israeli apartheid.'

It called on viewers to stop buying food and drinks from Starbucks and McDonald's and to boycott Disney's movies and cancel subscriptions to its streaming platform Disney Plus.

Towards the end of the video, a recording of a phone call is also played as one man can be heard bragging: 'All the alarms and going off; and that 'the doors are closed'.

A second voice then adds: 'Successful mission'.

A spokesperson for McDonald's told MailOnline: 'We are aware of an incident in our Birmingham Star City restaurant this evening. The restaurant has been fully sanitised and our pest control partners have been called out to conduct a full inspection.'

MailOnline has contacted West Midlands Police for comment.

There are organisations that rehome pet mice, but I fear that pest control will have had to kill them. It is clear that these were pet white mice, for their tame nature for ease of handling, and light fur to take the paint. Spraying aerosol paint into their box from above would have been cruel and caused the animals distress. But a cause that murders babies isn't going to worry about a couple of dozen rodents.

And another thing. From the looks of the number of painted mice in each plastic colour box, and the number of each colour he took into that branch in a cardboard box, they retain more than enough mice for attacks on several more shops.