

Sajid Javid and Baroness Warsi are named on new ISIS kill list of 'moderate' Muslims

From the kill list of powerful moderate Muslims including two senior Tories.

Business Secretary Sajid Javid and Baroness Sayeeda Warsi have been named as targets in the terror group's glossy propaganda magazine Dabiq.

ISIS have put them on an official 'hit list' because they are 'overt crusaders' who 'involve themselves in the politics and enforcing laws of the kufr (disbelievers)

The British MPs appear on the kill list containing the names of a dozen high profile Muslims across the western world.

Other names includes Hillary Clinton's long-time staffer Huma Abedin, who has been Clinton's top aide since the mid-1990s. Ms Abedin was named as a 'politically active apostate' alongside US Rep. Keith Ellison of Minnesota.

ISIS also confirmed, for the first time, that brothers Khalid and Ibrahim El Bakraoui, who blew themselves up in the attacks on the Belgian capital, were responsible for 'all preparations for the raids in Paris and Brussels.'

'Paris was a warning. Brussels was a reminder,' the article warned. 'What is yet to come will be more devastating and more bitter by the permission of Allah, and Allah prevails.'