

Seven Faculty Members At French Technology School Receive Death Threats From Muslims

Here.

The director of the school, Samuel Mayol, has for over a year been the recipient of death threats and has complained about the lack of official protection. He says that the threats emanated from his Muslim predecessor, and his supporters. That predecessor had been relieved of his duties for misuse and diversion of funds, cronyism (*copinage"), and other malefactions and crimes. Now six others on Mayol's staff have received such threats, and have been allowed to leave their posts at this dangerous school, created in order to give the (Muslims) the possibility of government-funded training in technology, a training that, if successful, might well be used against that government and the people of France. Samuel Mayol is staying on, alone.