

Something experimental involving a dandelion

I replaced the trusty but old and worn out tablet which I used to use while travelling, or out and about covering an event. I'm just getting used to the new one; how to post, camera quality and suchlike. This is a dandelion from my garden. I like dandelions so I am not fanatical about weeding them out. They are classed as a medicinal herb and bees love them. That alone is a reason to leave them in peace.

