

St George's Day and 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's death

I'm away from home this weekend but the English countryside is probably the best place to be on such a day as this. We visited Arundel Castle in Sussex, famous for its garden, or more accurately gardens. This is called the Oberon fountain which I though was a happy instance of serendipity.

Photograph E Weatherwax, Arundel, April 2016