

Tallinn – protest critical of President Putin of Russia

In Tallinn, capital city of Estonia this afternoon. I don't speak either Estonian or Russian to understand the speeches or to find out who the group were. But they were against any war in Ukraine or the imprisonment of political prisoners and they had a low opinion of Vladimir Putin.

The cafe they were outside is a rather beautiful Art Nouveau establishment which was noted as a meeting place in Tallinn for discussion and debate for decades under several repressive regimes. It is immediately opposite the Russian Consulate.
