

Terror suspect, 19, appears in court accused of sharing extremist material including 'Isis training' videos

From the Daily Mail who do mention the 'I' word and describe what was 'extremist' about his terror materials. Other newspapers are a bit vague.

A teenage terror suspect appeared in court accused of sharing extremist material on Instagram including 'Isis training' videos.

Elias Djelloul, 19, from east London, allegedly posted six different videos, including one featuring 'Isis training', between July 24 and September 7 this year.

Mr Djelloul also published films entitled 'Shaheed on the Battlefield' and 'Jihad in Syria', Westminster Magistrates' Court heard. He was arrested last Friday by officers from the Met Police's Counter Terrorism Command. District Judge Paul Goldspring remanded the teenager in custody ahead of a plea and trial preparation hearing on December 17.