Eventually El-Sisi (or Al-Sisi, in the non-Egyptian version) will move Egypt, if circumstances permit, entirely away from the monster that the Arab states themselves created – the “Palestinian people” – and so, for other reasons, will other Arab rulers, whether out of necessity, as with collapsing-in-on-itself Syria (the Alawites made a fatal error in not long ago throwing in their lot with Israel, and instead choosing to survive by becoming more anti-Israel than the True-bluest of Muslims). It is dawning on some of the more advanced and practical Arabs, the ones who don’t know quite how to get a handle on the genie-out-of-the-bottle Islam, the Islam of those who, in eastern Syria and western Iraq, are right now pretending that they are Muhammad and His Companions (for that is their dream, that is the fantasy-world they inhabit) that the “Palestinian” cause – that is, the Jihad against Israel – is no longer a clever way to divert the attention of their wretched peoples, multiplying beyond all reason, and that whipping up the Arab masses against Israel now only reinforces the most dangerous kind of Islam, the kind that is, that threatens stability and a modicum of decency in the Arab-occupied lands of the Middle East and North Africa.
