

They are slags, not victims, lawyer tells grooming trial

From the Daily Mail

Six children who bravely gave evidence of being groomed and used for gang sex were accused by a defence lawyer of claiming serial abuse because "it's better to be a victim than a slag".

The Cambridge-educated QC, Michael Magarian, QC, who specialises in gang related cases, said the schoolgirls could have been 'brainwashed by social workers', according to