

Truck ramming terror attack hits Israel

From the Jerusalem Post and the Telegraph

Some 37 people were wounded to various degrees after a truck rammed into a bus stop near Gilot in central Israel on Sunday, (an area that is home to the Mossad headquarters as well as several IDF intelligence units) Israeli emergency medical service Magen David Adom reported on Sunday. Police believe (this) was a terror attack.

One person was in critical condition, according to the Sourasky Medical Center. MDA added that paramedics treated six seriously wounded and five moderately wounded individuals.

Some 20 individuals who sustained light wounds and four people who suffered from anxiety were being treated by medics, MDA also stated, adding that the majority of casualties were adults. Many ... were senior citizens who had just got off a bus ahead of a visit to a nearby museum when the truck rammed into them, according to Israeli media reports

Civilians who were on-scene had shot at the truck driver and thwarted him, the Israel Police reported.

Israeli police recovered the body of the driver from the truck. He was reportedly shot by armed civilians Credit: JACK GUEZ/AFP

Emergency services are currently seeking blood donations to help treat the wounded, according to Channel 12.