

UK Police Arrest Man For 'Offensive' Facebook Post About Migrants

Liam Deacon writes in 1,000 Syrian migrants, with 12 families already arriving since December last year..

However, commenting on the comparatively huge and sudden influx of Muslim immigrants online just became a very risky business for local residents.

Police have confirmed they have arrested a 41-year-old local man under the Communications Act, after receiving a report of a supposedly "offensive" comment made on Facebook regarding the migrants.

A police spokesman was unequivocal, that any harsh criticism of the Muslim influx would not be "tolerated". Inspector Ewan Wilson from Dunoon police office
