

Wakefield man jailed for 21 years for multiple rape offences against teenage girls

*Not tried with a gang this time – but I bet he had company.
From the Wakefield Express*

A Wakefield man has been jailed for 21 years after being convicted of multiple rape offences against two teenage girls.

Nadeem Hussain, aged 46, has been found guilty of four count

Nadeem Hussain, aged 46, formerly of Regent Street, Wakefield; was found guilty following a four-week trial at Grimsby Crown Court of four counts of rape and one count of assault by penetration. Grimsby is in Lincolnshire – some 71 miles away. The nearest Crown Court centre to Wakefield is Leeds. Maybe there was quicker capacity available at Grimsby; or maybe the CPS wanted his tried by a jury of hi 'peers' not his cousins.

He was sentenced today (Thursday 15th) at Grimsby Crown Court to 21 years imprisonment and was made the subject of a lifetime Sexual Harm Prevention Order, which will put restrictions on him on his release from prison to further protect the public.

The victims were aged 16 and 17 at the time of the offences.

Detective Sergeant Kirsty Senior, of Wakefield District's Child Vulnerable to Exploitation Team (CVET), said: "Hussain has groomed his victims over a lengthy period of time, plying them with heroin and crack cocaine to enable his sexual offending. These were vulnerable teenage girls who he exploited. The sentence he has been given reflects the fact he is a dangerous offender who deserves to be behind bars.

"This court case has been the culmination of a two-year complex investigation by CVET. Hussain refused to accept his guilt resulting in a four-week trial and I am pleased that his victims have now got justice. That being said, no jail term can ever erase the lasting emotional, physical and psychological damage that Hussain has caused these two young girls.