

Zone Seven

by James LePore (December 2016)

Martian Dreams by James LePore

The sun rises every day on our planet, just as it does on yours. What we do, however, is project an image in the atmosphere at the horizon so that our people, if they are inclined to wake early, can start their day with something nice to look at. Today it's the skyline of the city you call New York. more>>>